

Alachua County Cease Violence In The Hood Proposal

Program Description:

Cease Violence In The Hood (CVITH) is a community-based effort focused on addressing violence as a public health issue. Pleasant Street Civil Rights and Cultural Arts Center and Strong-Minded Mentors are the lead organizations for CVITH. Our organizations have deep roots in the community, and have developed the foundation for a bottom-up violence interruption model that focuses on resources, mentorship, and strategic partnerships to address the social determinants of health. We seek to reduce violence in neighborhoods experiencing the most violence (hot spots) in Alachua County and to expand our impact and skills by collaborating with Cure Violence Global and building a three-pronged model that will address Action 2, 3, and 4 of the US Department of Justice Roadmap. We are seeking funding for our expansion pilot that will use a community-based, collaborative approach to:

- Hire, train, and manage violence interrupters that will work to detect and prevent potentially violent situations by identifying and changing the attitudes and behaviors of the highest risk individuals (i.e., those engaged in or most likely to engage in violence) and
- identify, match and structure mentorship support, programming, job skills training, and accountability for these individuals as they seek new paths for their lives.
- Hire, Train and manage Community Health Workers (CHW) for hot spot communities that will work with these neighborhood residents to identify key needs that address the social determinants of health and refer them to resources. This information will also be used to provide feedback to agencies and organizations as they prioritize funding and program areas.

In order to achieve these goals, CVITH will leverage the existing framework of the Alachua County CHW mentoring program and Strong-Minded Mentors program to identify interrupters and CHWs that come from impacted communities and work with Cure Violence Global, a national leader in this area, to provide training and technical assistance on strategies for implementing effective prevention programs that significantly reduce violence. CVITH will also collaborate with the network of organizations and agencies that are addressing issues of crime, gun violence, and community health to ensure coordination and the flow of information that is necessary by participating in the Cease Violence effort, Black on Black Crime Task Force, and working directly with law enforcement, Public Safety officials, hospitals, healthcare, Santa Fe College, City and County Government, churches, and community organizations.
